INVITATION

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the International Society of Fish & Shellfish Immunology and the Local Organising Committee we cordially invite you to participate in the third International Conference on Fish & Shellfish Immunology. The conference will be held at the Auditorium Alfredo Kraus, Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, Spain. The Auditorium of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria bears the name of Alfredo Kraus, the most international Canary Island tenor and the most beloved by the general public. This is a gesture of tribute and gratitude for his work in the music world, his figure carrying the name of the city to the ends of the earth. The building that houses the Alfredo Kraus Auditorium, the work of architect Oscar Tusquets, is one of the most outstanding and representative constructions of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. Situated at the end of Las Canteras Beach, this isolated and independent fortress was designed as a lighthouse to identify and protect the city. Ever since it was opened, the image of the Alfredo Kraus Auditorium as a sentry watching over Las Canteras Beach has become one of the most emblematic views of the city.

The Conference will begin with registration (16:00-18:00) and a get-together on Sunday 16th June in the Auditorium Alfredo Kraus. From Monday 17th to Thursday 20th June there will be a full scientific programme of Keynotes, oral presentations, dedicated poster sessions, workshops and roundtables. An ISFSI plenary session is also scheduled.

On Thursday, 20th June the scientific programme of the Conference will close with the traditional Conference Banquet, this time at Finca Laraiga. On Friday, 21th June, there will be a study visit; to Marine Scientific Park of University of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria. The visit can be purchased separately (see registration form).

The Conference Centre can accommodate smaller meetings of EU project partners and we encourage members to avail of this facility. However, room hire and associated costs are not covered by the ISFSI and must be paid in advance. For details, please contact Barceló Congresos (conference agency).

The official language of the conference is English.

We look forward to meeting you at the conference and we are certain that you will enjoy Las Palmas de Gran Canaria and the surroundings.

For more details and up-to-date information about the Conference, please visit our homepage on www.isfsi2019laspalmas.com regularly.
